

Angus was born in Gloucestershire as the youngest of four children.

He gained a degree in modern languages from the University of St Andrews, as part of which he also spent time in both France and Germany. During this time he became heavily involved in the sports on offer, representing the University, to varying degrees of competence, at cricket, golf and football.

Angus spent 5 years at Barclays Bank in the UK, mainly in London and Paris, when he qualified as a Chartered Banker, before completing an MBA at the University of Cambridge.

For 30 years up to retirement in 2023, Angus worked in different roles in the National Health Service, most of which related to senior hospital management positions. His last role was as Chief Operating Officer at a Trust in East Anglia.

Angus and his wife Helen met in London and were married in 1994. After 13 years in Buckinghamshire they moved to Rutland in 2007 and will make the short move to Stamford soon. They have three children and one grandson.

Angus and Helen are both keen golfers and have enjoyed the Girdlers golf days as well as the inter-livery Prince Arthur Cup. As a member of the MCC, Angus also attends Lord's when he is able. He has been a season ticket holder of Leicester City FC with his son for many years, enjoying their ups and suffering their downs.

Angus is proud of his family's history within the Livery movement. His mother's father was Second Master of the Shipwrights and his father and other grandfather were both Masters of the Girdlers.

During his year as Master, Angus is particularly keen to continue the drive to give greater opportunity to the Livery to participate in the Company's events and activities. He is also particularly interested in the Company's youth related charities, including the Crown and Manor Boys' Club, with which his family have had a long affiliation. He will also be supporting the Company's planning as we move towards the 700th anniversary of our Royal Charter in 2027.
